PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY
March 1, 2016

Polls are open from 7:00 AM to 8:00 PM
At the Town Hall

This is a note from Nadia Marti, a Warwick resident in her final semester at Warren Wilson College in Asheville, North Carolina:

"I started training this week at the Swannanoa Fire Department for the NWCG (National Wildfire Coordinating Group) Wildland Firefighter certification. It feels so good to be involved with a fire department again, and I am incredibly excited at the opportunities I will have after I complete this program; I will be a member of the Buncombe County Fire Crew, here in North Carolina, but will be able to work for the US Forest Service, or Fisheries and Wildlife, for example. I am super grateful to the Warwick Fire Department for taking me on as a Junior almost seven years ago, and helping me realize how much I enjoy the world of firefighting and EMS!"

WHAT DOES THE TERM “SEALING AND INSULATION” MEAN?

When contractors talk to homeowners they often use the term “Sealing and Insulation,” but what do those terms actually mean? Do they really mean the same thing? The answer is simple. They do not mean the same thing. “Sealing is quite different than “insulating.”

“Sealing” means plugging up air leaks. “Insulating” means preventing heat flows from one side of a surface to the other. It sounds complicated but these are concepts we all understand and use every day. Let’s use an example. Think of a person going out to their mail box on a windy winter day. The house is chilly so they are wearing a toasty warm, bulky sweater. As they walk out to the mail box the wind drives through the bulky knit sweater as if it wasn’t there and chills this person to the bone. They should have put on a wind breaker jacket before going outside. We all know this and buy winter jackets that stop the wind as well as insulate the body. The closely woven outer fabric stops the wind (and often water) while the inner layer of the jacket consists of a fabric that insulates. The outer layer of the jacket “seals” out the wind while the inner layer “insulates.”

The same things happen in a house. Some houses are neither insulated nor sealed and it takes a lot of fuel to keep them warm. What do I mean by “sealing” a house, and is it important? It is important. Just as you zip up (seal) your jacket on a cold, blowy day, you should zip up (seal) your house. In some cases, sealing is more important that insulating your house, and many steps toward a good seal are inexpensive. You can tell if your house is poorly sealed. It is poorly sealed if there are cold drafts on windy days. It is poorly sealed if it is very dry in the house. Just as you are cooler on a warm, dry summer day with a slight wind blowing than on a hot, muggy summer day with no wind, you are cooler when air leaks reduce the humidity in your house (dry) and the draft feel is the same as a cool summer breeze. It is costing you money to heat the air that is leaking out, and you feel colder.

In sealing, it is the little things that count. Like zipping up your jacket, it is not a big deal, but makes a big difference in your comfort. What can you do? The suggestions I will make are easy and the supplies are available at local hardware stores. Install gaskets on all light switches and receptacles on outer walls (an easy one screw job). Install gaskets on all doors leading outside to seal the crack. Using spray foam, seal where the electric power wire comes into the house, where TV and other wires leave the house, where the pipes and wires go into the attic. Seal the door or hatch leading to the attic. Using ribbon caulk or removable caulk (such as Zip Strip) seal the crack around the windows (be sure and use removable caulk if you will be opening the windows in summer). Move to the basement and seal with caulk or spray foam any cracks in the foundation that let air in. If you have a bulkhead entry way, you really should build a door in the basement to seal it. That will make a huge difference, but may be a larger project than you can easily handle.

Welcome to the Solarize initiative!

Warwick and Northfield together are applying to become “Solarize Mass” communities. This program pulls together homeowners interested in photovoltaic solar (PV) systems and can help lower installation prices for participants. Coupled with the new solar loans recently rolled out, the stars appear to be well aligned to own your own PV system.

Through the Mass Solar Loan Program, participating lenders offer low-interest loans for Massachusetts residents and property owners, including renters and those with moderate incomes or low credit scores. This includes a 20 – 30% buy-down of the principal if the household income is under $80,000.

Wooden Fender Concert Series

A fine time was had by all at Wooden Fender’s annual Blues Night. Rick King and his highly talented cohorts in Blue Rendezvous fired up the crowd at Town Hall and had friends and neighbors on the dance floor all evening. The band was joined on a few songs by our own Michael Humphries playing smokin’ harmonica and George Roaf playing some tasty blues riffs on acoustic guitar. Many thanks to Blue Rendezvous and Michael Humphries Woodworking for helping us stage our best Blues Night yet! We still have two more great shows in our winter series that are guaranteed to get you on the dance floor and chase away the winter chill. As usual, they’re coupled with some delicious comfort food and together they provide the finest dining and dancing that Franklin County has to offer.

Mark your calendars:

Warwick Arts Council News - The Warwick Arts Council and Mt. Grace Land Conservation Trust are pleased to present:

Poetry By Nick & Margot Fleck on Sunday March 6th at 2pm in the Warwick Free Public Library. Please join us for a special reading by this husband and wife duo from Northfield. Nick’s new poetry book, “Natural Sustenance”, will be available. In addition, artwork by Margot Fleck will be on display at the Library. This is a FREE event and refreshments will be provided.

Nick Fleck taught poetry and literature at Northfield Mt.Hermon School for over 25 years; his new book includes poetry from over 50 years of writing. Good poetry craft can enhance the quality of feelings in a poem, according to Fleck. His work covers the gamut from deeply emotional topics to descriptive and lighter reads including challenging rhyme schemes.

Margot Fleck also has a long history of poetry writing as well as visual art creation. Several of her drawings will be on exhibit at the Library. A Chekhov quote “...art exists to prepare us for tenderness...” provides the essential gist for her work. Margot’s website http://www.margotwfleck.com/ showcases many examples of her poetry plus drawings & collage. She describes some of her intentions as follows: “to bridge gaps, to reach others”, “to detach, to yield to the process of becoming” and “seek essence in an individual” when representing human images.

March 2016

Dear Friends,

After more than a thousand years of vitriolic animosity, leaders of the Roman Catholic Church and the Russian Orthodox Church have met and talked and signed an agreement. I may be a Protestant Christian, but I have little to protest about Pope Francis. He has brought a strong dose of humility to an institution that had accumulated a lot of the trappings of worldly power and legalistic ossification. Francis can be generous in his forgiveness because he is bold and humble enough to ask for forgiveness, for both his institution and himself. While many who claim the title of “Christian” have gladly enlisted in the “Culture Wars” in a “take no prisoners”, “death to the infidels” mode, this Pope embodies the proclamation Jesus made for his own ministry; “The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me to preach good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim release to the captives and recovery of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed, to proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord.” (Luke 4: 18-19). Central to that proclamation is the principle of forgiveness and central to forgiveness is humility, not a concept held in high regard by our society which promotes individual celebrity and then devours the “fallen hero”. The persona Pope Francis projects is not the authority figure who proclaims what is right so much as one who invites others to “come let us reason together” to find a way to embody compassion and peaceful coexistence in a world torn apart by fear, hatred and greed.

While most observant Christians think of Lent as a time of “fasting”, giving up some habit or behavior, Pope Francis advocates taking on a new habit; that of being aware of our own privilege, being compassionate and forgiving, considerate of others, or, as the Buddhist tradition teaches it, “living consciously”. “Is not this the fast I choose: to loose the bonds of injustice, to undo the thongs of the yoke, to let the oppressed go free and to break every yoke? Is it not to share your bread with the hungry, and bring the homeless poor into your house; when you see the naked, to cover them, and not hide yourself from your own kin?” (Isaiah 58: 6-7)

Oh but what a hypocrite I am to even suggest this as a viable option for life in this world we live in. I occasionally help at the food pantry, but it’s not MY bread I am sharing. I give clothing to the Salvation Army or take them to the emergency shelter, but it’s what I no longer need. I give money and have worked with Habitat for Humanity, but don’t take the homeless into MY house. I advocate for justice for the poor and the marginalized, but I don’t give away all I have in the way of possessions and privilege, I share out of my excess. So what right do I have to “preach” to you or anybody about how to live?

None! All I can do is hold up others who are living more closely to the ideals I say I hold dear as alternatives to the Donald Trumps, “IS” and other terrorists who are ripping apart this beautiful world, and then try to move in the direction of living a more compassionate, more loving, more conscious life myself. This is a life-long journey, but worth the effort for myself and for our children and grandchildren. I know it isn’t going to be easy and I know I will fall flat on my face at times, but I’m hopeful that some of you will hold me accountable and then help me up when I fall down.

In Faith,

Dan

ON-GOING

Restaurant Review

Metcalf Chapel Dinner
Warwick Town Hall
March 2016

I usually review places after I have been there. However, this month I decided to review before I go.

Why you ask? So it will be fresh in your minds. If I was to review the Metcalf Chapel’s St Patrick’s Day Dinner in March after I went, you would have to wait a year before attending again and you would forget, right?

So, since I have been going since I moved up here a few years back, I can honestly say it is the best corned beef dinner around.

The waiters and waitresses hustle to make sure all the family style dishes are hot and filled as many times as you wish. They serve extra tender corned beef (melts in your mouth), potatoes, cabbage, and I believe carrots or cole slaw. The pies are superb. My personal favorite is the chocolate cream.

So watch for the date of the dinner, which I believe is Saturday, March 19, 2016 and come enjoy the food, friendly neighborhood folks, and probably some entertainment after. You won’t be disappointed.

Bon Appetite.

The best self-help remedy available for your Warwick wireless broadband connection when it isn’t working is to restart your home network devices. That fixes a common network problem with your Internet address. There are two ways to get an Internet address. They are: either configuring a fixed assignment, or a lease. Our system gives you a 48 hour lease. And while it often works to shut everything down at, for example, your power strip, and then turn it all back on at the same time, you won’t get lucky every time. You will do more good by doing the dance in a particular order. Shut down your wireless router or home gateway. And shut down your devices. You can do this in any order because at this point it doesn’t matter. These are your home network devices. They don’t include the radio device we installed because it is a bridge and on a bridge an address conflict does not matter. It is routers, gateways, and end devices that depend on a unique Internet address. Assuming you didn’t turn off your “radio” (if you did, turn it back on, wait three minutes, then proceed as follows:) the first thing to do is turn your router or gateway back on. Wait a few minutes while it introduces itself to the Warwick Broadband Network and gets an assignment, which is an IP address lease. Finally, after several minutes, turn on your computer, tablet, phone, connected TV, your devices. They are getting their IP address from your router or gateway and your router or gateway is translating it to our addresses. If that doesn’t fix the outage please call us at 413-676-9544. Be sure to leave a message because the call gets turned into an e-mail to all of us who work to keep the system running, and lets us know that you have a problem.

Our new school superintendent at Pioneer Regional, Ruth Miller, and the District’s Budget Sub Committee led by Warwick’s Martha Morse brought in a budget recommendation for next year with the lowest annual budget growth to date in my eight years working as Town Coordinator. After the annual budget public hearing which was packed with school employees, the full committee did not take their Sub Committee’s lead and instead voted a 2.5% increase. Enrollment in our District has fallen by 25% in the past seven years. We are not alone. School age population in Western Mass is in decline while educational spending is not. There will be both a requested and recommended column in the annual budget presented at Town Meeting and you will get to decide. David Shoemaker and I are the other Warwick elected School Committee members and we all three voted for the more modest 1.57% increased budget recommendation.

I’ve been working on a municipal financial transparency website to help our taxpayers better understand where their money goes, where it comes from, and how we compare with similar communities. The web address is www.cleargov.com and by clicking on Massachusetts and searching for Warwick you will find our data, which goes as far back as 2011 and will soon include our future recommended budget. I’d like you to look it over and share your take.

One of the costs of Warwick town government services, and one that will be growing significantly unless we decide to make a change, is ambulance service and in particular our subsidy of the Town of the Orange Ambulance service. Currently we make a contribution of about $8,800 per year, next year it will be $17,500 and the year after that more than $24,000. Beyond that the cost to our taxpayers will depend on the number of trips taken to Warwick by Orange Ambulance and how much they collect in insurance payments, plus an assessment for capital replacement. Orange characterizes our payment as an assessment and recently thought to consult with us because they want agreement on more financial support. The subsidy was $2,000 in the 1980s and has grown since then. The purpose at the start was to help the host town with the cost of replacing ambulance vehicles, though the funding we have provided has, to date, gone into the pot, the town’s general fund. This ambulance service is part of the Orange Fire Department. They contend that 61% of Fire Department costs are medical versus fire. I dispute the allocation and as well, the “approved methodology” to charge nearby towns. My objections are from both fairness and from a logical perspective. The agreement with the other towns and Orange is the sausage making of political compromise. Full disclosure: the compromise higher cost won’t add a dollar to your tax rate as was reported in the newspaper. It takes $73,000 of spending to add a dollar to our tax rate. My analysis says we will be subsidizing Orange for what they would be doing anyway and I think we are subsidizing their Fire Department as well. Your Selectboard has asked me to look at our options and while Northfield is probably our next best alternative, I can’t yet argue that they would be Orange’s equal.
In response to the proposed gas pipeline project our Planning Board is proposing a road preservation bylaw so that we can recoup the cost of damage done to our roads by this construction project if it occurs. In addition the Selectboard created a donation account for research and legal action which you may contribute to. Meanwhile the developers have filed with the state Public Utilities Commission seeking permission to survey upon land whose owner have not granted access. My reply is this doesn’t make sense since FERC hasn’t decided that the pipeline is needed. For a fuller rebuttal see Planning Board Chair Cady’s nine pages of hearing testimony which I’ve posted on www.blog.town.warwick.ma.us

The effect of large construction projects on our roads is a big concern. We can’t prohibit truck traffic that conforms to and abides by the law or statute no matter how inappropriate it seems to us. That includes the tractor trailers routed over 78 every day unless they exceed the legal length, width, or weight and need a permit. We are seeking approval of our neighboring towns to place signs at either end of Route 78 to inform truckers that Route 78 is not a state highway in Massachusetts and that their state or federal permit for over wide or over weight loads doesn’t apply. That way truckers can avoid us and avoid getting to the town line to learn this fact at a point where there is no place to turn a big rig around. 78 is a Town road and they need to call our PD first for permission. I note that any local traffic that has no other option is highly likely to be permitted.

Recently the Governor’s office told the state agency dealing with expanding rural broadband (MBI) to hold off spending money that will have to be borrowed. This is a matter of cash flow, and specifically the Baker Administration is trying to conform to the legislature’s voted debt ceiling or limit. The Commonwealth spent bond money heavily during the recession which helped kick-start our economy and also has us pressing up against the Legislature’s borrowing limit. Some folks will claim this is the result of the tension between WiredWest and MBI over the proposed fiber project. I think not. Moreover, the Town of Warwick itself has two legislative earmarks (designated appropriations) on the dock. One is for our principal highway, Route 78 to improve the “Gulf” and the stream crossing and the other for land protection / acquisition. These projects, we have been informed, face the same timing issues with respect to the level of the State’s outstanding debt. I think this means we will have some extra time, past the July 1 deadline, to figure out how we want to accomplish broadband: to answer the question of fiber or wireless.
